

Illustrate an image like the “petrol plant” that represents this statement:

In 2008 the USA, once breadbasket to the world, dedicated 30% of its corn crop to the production of bio-fuels for its automobiles. Europe too, introduced laws forcing all motorists to accept bio-fuels mixed in with their petrol. Through 2007 & 2008 bio-fuel refineries sprang up, watching speculators placed their bets, grain prices rocketed. The competition between feeding cars and feeding people began. Analysts attributed three quarters of the rise in the grain price to bio-fuels.

